ESG considers and prioritises Environmental, Social, and Corporate Governance aspects when assessing a property. Our valuation has considered readily apparent ESG aspects that are relevant to the market segment and property type. Prospective purchasers/owners in this segment are generally not impacted by governance policies and any consideration to environmental and social aspects are usually outweighed by personal and/or financial considerations such as location/lifestyle or return on investment. Any observations or comments made in relation to aspects of ESG are provided in our capacity as a valuer only and where further advice or information is required, an appropriately qualified advisor should be engaged.
