The ISCCC have asked us to let you have our views.

One is that we need to modernise our waste disposal facilities, and the proposed Fyshwick facility contains the makings of a good idea. However, the proposal has generated a lot of local fear and hostility, and the proponents have not helped their cause by the ham fisted way they have handled the public consultation. While some of the public rage seems overblown, the serious points which have been raised, especially about odours, pollution and traffic, need to be addressed.

A location further along the railway line toward the NSW border would address some of these concerns. The Government also needs to make out a persuasive case for the replacement of Mugga Lane in the near future.
